

Abstract

A carrier has openings for holding workpieces during polishing. Upper and lower polishing pads push against upper and lower surfaces of the workpieces, respectively. A ring is provided within the openings. This ring surrounds the workpieces, and prevents or reduces roll-off.